KILLED BY LOVE

ASTHMA victim Sarah Copley.

By JOE BERGER

Lovestruck Sarah Copley was so excited to see her boyfriend again after eight long weeks that she suffered a severe asthma attack — and died in his arms!

"It's hard to believe, but poor Sarah died because she loved me too much," heartbroken beau Michael Blakesly told reporters in South London, England.

"The doctors said her asthma was brought on by the excitement of our reunion. It hurts to see such a beautiful thing turn into such a tragedy."

Starry-eyed Michael, 20, was vacationing in Yugoslavia last summer when he spotted dazzling Sarah dancing in a hotel disco and fell head over heels in love.

"I got to know her, and before long we were spending all of our time together," the stunned law student recalled. "We were crazy about each other. When it came time for me to go back to England, we could barely tear ourselves apart."

Later, Michael jetted back to Yugoslavia to spend two blissful weeks with the girl of his dreams. "That was wonderful, but this time it was even harder to say goodbye," he recalled.

Finally, Sarah's job in Yugoslavia ended and she returned to her parents' home in Rotherham, England. Michael immediately hopped a train from London to spend the weekend with her.

But by the time he arrived, 20-year-old Sarah was suffering an asthma attack so severe she could barely breathe.

"She was very sick, but she met me at the station anyway," teary-eyed Michael told a reporter.

"I took her right home and she seemed to be getting better. We were just so happy to be together.

"Then all of a sudden, she got worse and she couldn't breathe. I called an ambulance but it was too late."

Tragic Sarah passed away while her frantic boyfriend

NOW 'EAR THIS

By BEATRICE DEXTER

Success and happiness can be yours if you put your best ear forward when you listen.

That's the surprising conclusion of researchers in Norway whose studies show that listening with the proper ear can increase brain power by at least 30 percent.

According to scientists at the University of Bergen, the left ear triggers the right side of the brain where emotions and intuition are controlled. The right ear sends messages to the left brain, which deals with logic and objective information. By knowing which ear to listen with and blocking off the other ear with a small ball of cotton, you can be at your best when you're listening to others — and use maximum brain power to get ahead!

"If you're talking with your sweetheart, for instance, you are better off listening with your left ear," explained Dr. Hallyard Egeland, a psychologist. "To talk business with someone, listen with your right ear so you can be logical in your thought processes.

THINK TWICE when you pick up the phone. Scientists say you should switch ears depending on the caller.

"You can easily control conversations on the phone simply by switching the receiver to the proper ear. With conversations in person, simply insert a small wad of cotton in the ear you aren't going to use before you approach the person you wish to talk to."

Egeland's ideas have caused a furor in Norway where his book Listening at Your Best is a national best-seller.

Now, for NEWS readers, here's an easy-to-understand guide for listening based on his fascinating research:

● Your Mother-in-Law — Don't let her get to you. Use your right ear so you can stay cool — and even tune her out if you need to.

● Your Boss — Definitely use the right ear. You need to be on your toes at all times, even if the conversation is apparently casual.

LISTEN to bill collectors with your right ear.

● Your Mom — This is one person you can open up to. Use your left ear with her so you can listen with love.

● Your Sweetheart — Here's another person you can bare your emotions to. And the left ear will help you use your intuition so you can sense where that special someone is coming from.

● The Bill Collector — This is a right-ear encounter if there ever was one. Your left brain will help you keep your temper and think up excuses.

● Your Teacher — Switch ears on this one. Use your right ear for listening to the facts when you're studying math, science or history. Use the left when the subject is literature, art or music. Switch to your right ear again if the teacher asks you to memorize anything.

● Your Minister — Listen with your left ear to make sure you're getting his religious message loud and clear. You'll feel closer to your Maker by opening your feelings up using the right lobe of your brain.

● A Car Salesman — Keep track of his lies by listening with your right ear. You need your savvy left brain lobe to deal with this sharpie.

● Your Children — If they come to you for understanding, listen with the left ear.

If they want advice, listen with the right.

● Your Doctor — Here's another right-ear encounter. You need to hear clearly and unemotionally what is happening with your health, and you need to follow his instructions to the letter.

The ear you listen with can make or break you!

Use the left for your sweetheart — the right for your boss

Truck-driving poodles are a doggone menace!

Fed-up homeowner Rowena Russell is sick and tired of pickup trucks crashing into her house — because of dogs.

A man's pet poodles, left in the cab of a pickup truck at a convenience store uphill from her house, have twice knocked the truck out of gear.

The pickup then rolls downhill and careens into her yard near Chesterfield, Mass. Mrs. Russell has asked officials to protect her house with a barrier.

The thirstiest town in America

Rolla, Kans., is one thirsty town — it uses more water than any other community in the state.

In 1988, Rolla's 423 residents average 599 gallons per person a day, compared with the statewide average of 139 gallons.

"We do realize we have a problem, and we have taken steps," said Kurt Waldo, Rolla's city manager and public works superintendent.

Amazing new holiday diet!

Wonder slimming bean lets you pig out on eggnog, candy and cookies — and never gain an ounce, says top weight-loss doc

By LARRY COE

If you feel fat and sluggish after a big Thanksgiving dinner, take heart. You can pig out over the Christmas and New Year's holidays and still lose weight with miraculous guar gum!

The product, an all-natural fiber derived from the bean of the exotic guar plant, costs only pennies a day. When taken before meals it gives you a sensation of fullness.

That means you can wolf down holiday goodies and still lose up to six pounds a week because you'll be eating a mere fraction of what it usually takes to fill you up.

"You can use guar to lose any amount of weight you want, be it five pounds or 50," said Dr. Stuart Berger, a New York City physician who has used the diet bean extensively.

Folks planning to lose weight with guar gum should see their doctors before going on a weight-loss regimen.

"It doesn't take your appetite away, but you get halfway through a meal and you don't want any more," said Eric Kuhrts, one of the developers of the fat-melting product. "You simply can't eat as much.

"It's a non-chemical way of going on a diet, and studies have shown that it lowers cholesterol, too. It's a very exciting product, and it's totally natural."

Kuhrts and other experts have compiled research data that clearly demonstrates guar gum's effectiveness and safety. The FDA has already approved it as a food additive, and guar gum is used regularly in products such as ice cream.

People who take a teaspoonful of guar gum with a glass of water half an hour before meals can lose up to six pounds a week, studies show.

What's more, the natural the blood by 15 percent and lowers blood sugar levels by as much as 50 percent. Yet guar gum acts gently on the body.

When the diet aid is taken in tablet or powder form it expands in the stomach and creates a clear fiber gel that makes the stomach feel full. The fiber is not absorbed into the bloodstream, but passes through the digestive tract and is eliminated. While in the body, the gum slows down the absorption of fats through the intestines.

The gum is available in various forms that range in price from $8 to $12 for a month's supply.

It is available at health food stores or can be ordered direct from Guar-Aid, Twin Laboratories, 2120 Smithtown Ave., Ron-

AMAZING guar gum will let you enjoy the holidays and be as fetching as curvy actress Susan Schroder.

Southerners DON'T talk slower

It's a myth that Southern folks talk slower than other people. But they do stretch vowels to make two-syllable words out of one-syllable words.

"Take a word like 'bid,'" said dialect expert Walt Wolfram. "Southerners may say B-I-Y-U-D.

"The way Southerners talk is just an ancestral speech pattern and has nothing to do with climate or air," said Dr. Wolfram.

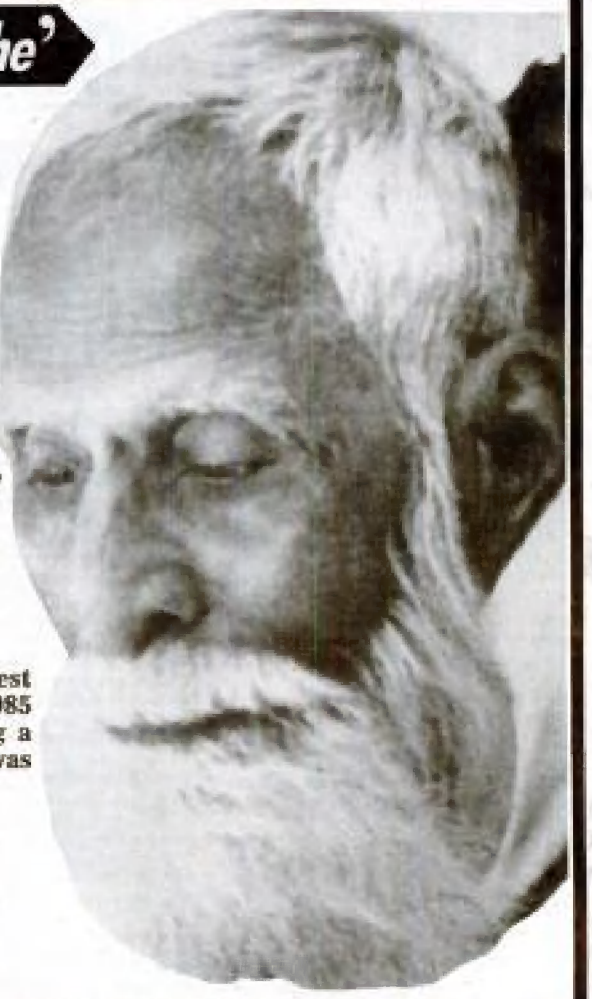
'She brought me nothing but heartache'

WORLD'S OLDEST MAN, 134, DUMPS WIFE, 37



GEEZER: Hafiz Qadir called his bride a "stupid child."

CHILD BRIDE: Her ex-husband says Nari, 37, can't boil water.

SON Ghulam Qadir never approved of his father's marriage to Nari.

By IRWIN FISHER

The son of the world's oldest living man told him in 1985 he was a fool for marrying a 37-year-old woman and he was right!

Hafiz Qadir, 134, now says his bride of four years "was a stupid, flighty child" — and he has gone through with a divorce.

"I never should have married that woman, never," Qadir told newsmen in Islamabad, Pakistan. "I thought her youth and beauty would make me happy.

"But she brought me nothing but heartbreak the whole time we were married."

The wedding of Qadir — who has documents to prove that he was born in 1855 and is the oldest man alive — and the peasant woman Nari made international headlines in 1985.

At the time he was quoted as saying: "She is a nice girl and we are happy together.

"It is no good for a man to be alone too long. Now I can go into my twilight years with a good woman at my side."

In fact, Qadir has had no shortage of companions during his incredible 134-year life.

He has already outlived two wives and 23 of his 100 children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren, Pakistani newspapers said.

His May-December romance with Nari was resisted by his family.

Ghulam Qadir, the man's 90-year-old son, actually called his dad "an old fool" for marrying the woman. He also predicted that their marriage would end in heartbreak.

"My son said Nari was too young for me and I told him to mind his own business," said Qadir. "Now I know I should have listened to him because he knew what he was talking about.

"Nari was no good for me. She is young and stupid and flighty.

"I couldn't depend on her to do anything. She can't boil water."

Mrs. Qadir refused to comment on her failed marriage. In keeping with Islamic law, her divorce from Qadir went into effect when he looked her in the eyes and said: "I divorce you."

The old man, who attributes his long life to hard work and clean living, said:

"If I ever marry again I will choose a bride closer to my own age. That makes more sense.

"These young girls like Nari come from a different world. They don't understand an old man like me."

But his son, Ghulam, doesn't believe his father has learned his lesson.

"He was an old fool then — he's an old fool now," said disgusted Ghulam. "Some men are weak when it comes to younger women."

'He was an old fool then — he's an old fool now,' says son, 90

Man buries dead pal in parents' yard

When his buddy died of a drug overdose, Michael Montheard buried him in the backyard of his parents' home instead of calling police.

Alan Istvan, 28, apparently crawled into the backseat of Montheard's car and choked to death on his own vomit after having fallen asleep. Montheard panicked and took his friend's body to the Long Island, N.Y., home of his parents and buried it, cops said.

Eight days later, Montheard told his mother what he'd done and she called the police.

Hunter gouges crocodile's eyes out — to save guide's life!

By LINDA THAYER

When his helpless guide was attacked by a crazed crocodile, African white hunter Shane Seaman leaped to the rescue and drove the savage beast off by gouging out her eyes with his thumb!

Though Seaman's heroic act saved his life, guide James Ngunde was severely mauled and lost most of his right arm in the crushing jaws of the 10-foot-long female croc, who apparently was protecting her egg nest.

A wire service story originating in Botswana said the life-and-death battle took place in the Okavango Swamp, about 400 miles northwest of the capital city of Gaborone.

"I thought when I dove into the swamp after the croc, that me and Jimmy would never make it out alive," the wire story said in quoting Seaman's account of the jungle drama.

"That was one mean-looking croc, and I had no idea what I was going to do when I reached her. The croc had Jimmy's arm in her jaws, and he was screaming bloody murder and thrashing about in the water like a wild man. I had a hell of a time judging where the beast was in the water.

"But I didn't have to find the croc. She slammed me full in the face with her tail. My head exploded like a bomb, and for a second everything went black."

The 22-year-old hunter said he almost passed out from the pain, but the guide's screams of agony forced him to regain his senses.

"When my head cleared, I could see I was only a few feet from the croc," Seaman said. "The swamp was rather shallow, and I half swam, half stumbled over to the beast. But she didn't have Jimmy anymore. All she had in her mouth was part of his arm.

"Seeing that gory arm, I think, is what gave me the strength to do what I did. And I hope to God I don't ever have to do anything like it again.

"I pulled myself up on the croc's back, wrapped one arm around her throat and my legs around her belly. That left me nothing to fight with but my left arm, and I just started gouging.

"I could look down right into that big girl's eyes, and that's what I went for. I started poking my thumb into those eyes like a crazy man.

"I poked out one eye, then I got the other. And that was all the croc wanted. She dived under the water, and I got the hell off.

"I took Jimmy to a missionary doctor, and he patched up his arm.

"We called a seaplane, and by nightfall he was in the hospital at Toteng. The docs say he'll be as good as new in a few weeks. Then we'll see what we can do about getting him a new arm. He is a damned good guide."

HOOKER GRANNY!

A 66-year-old granny was charged with prostitution after she allegedly offered sex to an undercover cop.

Margaret Healy stripped down to her lacy black underwear and told the officer it would cost him $150 for a romp in the sack, cops said.

Police believe Mrs. Healy ran a stable of 10 hookers from her New York City apartment, advertising their services in a porno magazine.

Farmer gets dying wish to burn rubber on his last ride

FARMER George Ivor didn't have a fast life, but at least he had a fast burial.

Hot-rodding hearse roars to funeral at 86 M.P.H.!

By LEROY WILLIAMS JR.

Speed-crazy pig farmer George Ivor's dying wish came true when he was whisked away to meet his Maker — in a highballing hearse.

Undertaker Tom Wilks put the pedal to the metal to get the hog raiser to his funeral in record time — breaking the speed limit in little Geraldton, Australia, in the process.

Curves kept undertaker from going any faster

"Dad was a real nut about racing cars and big motorcycles. He loved anything that could zip along like the wind," said his oldest son, Samuel.

"I think he always dreamed of driving in a Grand Prix himself or just roaring around a dirt track somewhere, but he never had a chance. Farming was his lot in life. So he settled for watching others have the fun behind the wheel — until the very end, that is."

Days before he died at the age of 78, the eccentric oldster told his family he wanted his hearse to highball into town at 90 m.p.h. "That was his idea of going out in style," Samuel said.

Wilks did his best to oblige.

"I just didn't have enough straight stretches to get up to 90, but I did make it to 86 m.p.h.," the mortician said. "Knowing George as I did, I think he would have been happy with the trip."

Police cooperated by clearing the seven-mile stretch of highway into town.

"When we said it was an old man's dying wish, they decided it was all right to bend the rules," Wilks said.

Flu might actually be poisoning!

Thousands of people who complain of having the flu each winter might actually be suffering from carbon monoxide poisoning!

Experts say the invisible, odorless gas leaks from defective furnaces and heaters. Small amounts cause such flu-like symptoms as muscle soreness, throat irritation and fatigue. Larger amounts can kill.

Chillingly, a recent study in Kentucky revealed that 20 percent of patients who went to the hospital for treatment of the flu had been poisoned by carbon monoxide.

"It's very, very common," said Roger Smith, professor of pharmacology and toxicology at Dartmouth Medical School in New Hampshire.

If you're concerned about carbon monoxide leaking into your home, call your furnace or heater dealer for a checkup.

"Ex-Truck Driver Gets $21,108 a Month Doing What You Aren't"

By Neville B. Levin - Special Feature Writer.

Orlando, FL. - "In only 6 months I took in a whopping $126,650 - and I can take any average person and show them exactly how to do it," declares Lawrence Tabak.

"To make an extra $30,000, my way, requires little effort."

Tabak began a few years ago with humble beginnings as a truck driver. But the cash didn't start to roll in until he discovered this little known money making secret.

Now, on a trial basis, Tabak has begun to train everyday people, just like himself, how to duplicate his new system.

Already the results have been astounding. For example, one person in St. Augustine wrote that they had made $8,500 in an unbelievable 11 days!

"I'm no smarter than you," he states, "only, I have discovered an amazing wealth system."

"Put my program into action," he says, "and you are admired driving your sparkling Mercedes, BMW, or Cadillac. You dazzle your friends with your new dream home. And people see you radiating like a champion."

"You can really be the kind of person that you always wanted to be."

And what's more," he adds, "to make an extra $30,000, my way, requires little effort!"

"Look, there's no magic wand, and poof . . . you're rich. It does take time and work. But it's worth it. In fact," he adds, "I only want people who are willing to put forth some effort to use it."

Now, you may not make as much as Tabak, but if you are a real "Go-Getter," you will make even more. And above all, the nice part is that you win the respect of your friends and family.

Tabak has offered to send further details to readers who want to learn his new wealth system. Simply send your name and address to:

"Tabak-INFO" Dept. MAS12. 1998 N. 427, Suite 6, Longwood, FL. 32750.

COPS BUST 12-YEAR-OLD FOR TOY GUN TERROR!

Boy charged after he aims play pistol at kids

A playful 12-year-old boy could be locked up on a real felony assault charge for allegedly threatening a group of neighborhood kids — with a toy gun.

"He walked up to two boys and two girls and said, 'Move or die,' and they moved," said Wayne Carr, Deputy Police Chief in Gibraltar, Mich.

Cops said the chrome-plated toy pistol could easily be confused with a real .22-caliber semiautomatic handgun.

The kids were terrified because they thought the gun was real. They told their parents, who called police.

Fifth-grader Keith Tishkof was taken to the police station, where he was photographed and fingerprinted.

His parents were outraged that police took him to jail for having a toy gun he found in a ditch.

"A 12-year-old finds a toy gun and he's going to get busted for a felony," said the boy's hopping mad dad, Keith Sr. "This is ridiculous.

"He wasn't robbing a gas station or trying to hold someone up," he added.

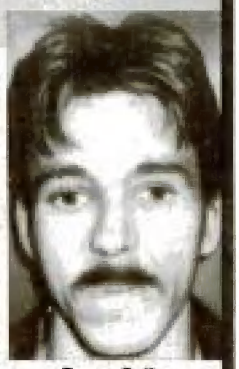
But Deputy Chief Carr said four witnesses told police the fifth-grader pointed the toy pistol at them in a threatening manner. "They were scared to death and ran straight home to tell their parents," said Deputy Chief Carr. "We're weighing their testimony against Keith's statement that he didn't threaten anyone."

"Because of all the stuff going on with kids and guns, we decided this kid isn't going to learn until we do something about it," said Police Lt. Jan Meyer.

Wayne County's Juvenile court authorities will conduct a hearing to determine if Keith should be charged with felonious assault.

Smoker goes berserk on jet — and threatens to kill passenger

. . . after he's told to put it out, say police



Bryan Polke

Ex-con Bryan Polke could go back to prison for a long, long time — because he smoked a cigarette on a commercial jet.

By JACK ALEXANDER

Polke, 31, flew into a rage and threatened to kill a passenger who pointed out that he was violating federal law by smoking, cops said.

"He started cursing the passenger . . . and said he was going to kill him," according to an affidavit filed in U.S. District Court.

The USAir flight was en route from Pittsburgh to Providence, R.I., when a cigarette dangling from Polke's mouth caught the unidentified passenger's eye.

He reminded Polke that no flight because it was less than two hours.

"Flight attendants eventually reseated the passenger in the first class section of the plane, but Polke continued to harass him," said the affidavit.

The pilot, Captain James Hosick, left the cockpit twice to help calm the passengers.

When the plane landed after midnight, Polke bolted from his seat in an apparent effort to go after the passenger, according to the affidavit.

Flight attendants blocked boarded the plane and took Polke into custody.

Polke's outburst occurred when the pilot and copilot should have concentrated on the aircraft, said assistant U.S. Attorney Edwin J. Gale.

Polke was released from prison August 3 after serving six years for assault and robbery. He has been charged with disorderly conduct and a federal felony charge of endangering flight safety by threatening an airline passenger. He is free on bail but state prosecutors say they'll try to get him sent back to

A year ago, I was barely making enough to survive...

"How I Earned Half-A-Million In The Last Six Months

...effortlessly, working only 5 to 10 hours a week."

Read how you, too, can earn $50,000 to $1,000,000 a year by working at home only 5 to 10 hours a week – starting out without a penny.

For a long time you've dreamed about earning a lot more money by working less – a lot less. This is not just a dream, I've actually done it. And hundreds of other people around the world have, too. Most of them are now millionaires. They have succeeded as a result of a unique, easy, systematic and highly effective process. Within a few weeks, you, too, will begin earning lots of money, without risk while working at home in your spare time. And now, I'd like to show you how to do this. But first I want to tell you how I discovered this process:

-  Would you like to earn $1,000, $5,000 or even $20,000 a week?
-  Would you like to earn this by working only 5 to 10 hours a week when you feel like it?
-  Would you like more time to enjoy life, to travel, and enjoy all sorts of leisure activities.
-  Would you like to retire within 5 years?

My name is J.C. Frost. About a year ago, I hardly had a cent. I had trouble paying my monthly rent of $135. Every day the bills piled up. I constantly had to check flyers for coupons so I could do my weekly shopping with only 20 dollars, if that much.

My daily meal consisted of hamburger with potatoes or spaghetti. I had to borrow money four times in a 6 month period to pay the rent, the phone bill, and other expenses. My debts quickly rose to over $5,000 and I hadn't the slightest idea of how to get out of this mess. That was a little over a year ago.

Things are quite different today. Each week, I put between $20,000 to $70,000 in my bank account. I live in a luxury apartment. I own a house in the country. I have 3 cars, including a Rolls Royce, for which I paid cash. Soon, I'll buy a chateau in France.

But that's not all:

I only work 5 to 10 hours a week, when I feel like it. I'm free to enjoy life, so I ski 3 times a week in the winter and I'm off to the beach 3 times a week in the summer. I only eat in the best restaurants. Plus, I travel everywhere: to Italy, France, Denmark, Holland, Haiti, and so on. I go off on long vacations whenever I want and I plan to retire within two years (before I reach 30).

I'm not telling you all of this to impress you, but rather to prove to you that the way I've discovered to earn money really works. It drastically changed my life in the space of a few weeks and will do the same for you.

But you don't believe me. All this seems too good to be true. I'd like to show you just how this formula succeeds for everyone who applies it.

When you receive my book, read it, and follow the simple step-by-step plan it contains. It shows you exactly what you must do. The steps are so simple, they could be followed by a 12 year old child.

If, for some reason, you're not already making $800 a week within 30 days, just send the book back anytime. I'll refund your money in full. You don't have to give any reasons or answer any questions.

If you accept this trial offer – where I take all the risks and you none – I am 100% certain that this system will also work for you. And, as proof of my sincerity, you can send me a check post-dated for 30 days from today if you like.

This will give you the time to try out my process before I've even had the chance to deposit your check. You are probably asking yourself why would I want to share my discovery with others. To make money? Hardly. First of all, I'm already making enough money and I have more than I need. Secondly, hundreds of people can apply this system at the same time, without competing with each other. Thus, by sharing this process with others, I won't suffer any losses. Thirdly, I'm going to retire within two years, and it makes me happy to be able to share this process with other people who want to trust me.

The best is yet to come. I'm going to tell you what the secret of my success is:

In order to profit from it:

You don't need a lot of time. I only work between 5 to 10 hours each week. All those using my formula rarely work more than that.

You don't need any money. I started without a penny and without borrowing. Here's a little story about this, in fact:
This past summer, I was browsing through a newspaper and one article in particular about the formula caught my attention. This is an excerpt from it:
"...now and for the foreseeable future there is and will be no other process which will allow anyone to become rich so quickly and so easily while starting off without a penny..."
The article was written by a leading international columnist.

You won't need any special education or knowledge. Personally, I never finished college and I had no prior knowledge about this field.

You don't need any experience. You just need to apply the formula. I know people who've earned tens of millions in a few years using this process.

No luck is involved. Obviously, the formula has nothing to do with astrology, lotteries, bingo, good luck charms, or any miraculous way of earning money.

You don't need an office or special equipment to get started. All you need is a pen and a few sheets of paper. This process can be applied anywhere, at any time. It is universally valid and works as well in Europe or Australia as it does in North America. It can be used in the city or the country.

No door-to-door, telephone or real estate sales are involved—nor anything similar is needed to earn this money.

What do you need?

You only need to trust me and believe in me enough to send a check for $17.00. When you receive my book, sit down, read it, and apply the step-by-step process it describes. I promise you that the results will exceed your wildest expectations.

And remember, you can return this book at any time within 365 days after receiving it and you'll get a full refund. This is a formal one-year guarantee. So, you can order the book out of simple curiosity.

– The formula it contains is so simple to apply, that you'd practically have to trip over yourself to not earn enormous amounts of money.

– No physical effort is involved. Anyone can do it, whether they're 12 or 90 years old.

– Moreover, I know of no other process which is as honest or legal as this one.

– You can put it into practice immediately after reading this book. After that, everything becomes automatic. You'll be earning thousands, even tens of thousands of dollars a week, for as long as you like.

What are you going to do with all this money?

Take holidays whenever you feel like them. Buy a beautiful home. Pay off your debts. Travel. Get one or more luxury cars. Maintain a bank account which just grows and grows...

Before reading any further, just think of what all this money can do for you.

Perhaps you've had your doubts in the last few minutes while reading this. That's normal. It seems just too good to be true. Maybe you've already bought similar books which haven't worked for you. I'm asking you to try once more and I promise this is really it. I'm going to prove to you that what I say is true:

Here's how much I've put into my bank account during the past six months:

July:	$ 48,559.78
August:	$ 81,888.32
September:	$128,205.94
October:	$175,184.83
November:	$ 42,713.85
December:	$ 82,471.51
Total $571,024.15

And here are some of the people who've become rich through this process (I've only used their initials here, in order to respect their privacy):

"... In just 3 months, I took in over $65,000..."
F.C. Florida

"... I made $18,250 the first month, using your method..."
L.W. Nevada

"... I worked 10 days and made $8,000..."
U.S. New York

"... Last week I made $11,000. At this rate I'll soon be a millionaire..."
T.E. Oregon

And on and on.

These people all became rich simply by applying this process. And they are only a few examples. The complete list is so long, it would more than fill up all the pages of this newspaper.

Remember what that well-known columnist said about the formula I discovered:

"...now and for the foreseeable future there is and will be no other process which will allow anyone to become rich so quickly and so easily while starting off without a penny..."

I believe that this is true, and I am confident you will too, within a few days of reading my book. This is why I can offer you such a complete, no-strings attached guarantee.

FORMAL ONE YEAR GUARANTEE

It is hereby agreed that if you are not earning at least $800 a week within 30 days of reading this book (while working no more than 5 to 10 hours a week at a leisurely pace), you may return this book to me within 12 months. I promise to send you a full refund within five days of receiving such a request. This is a formal guarantee affording you absolute legal protection.

Read the following if you are still unsure about making a risk-free test.

Even with this trial guarantee, perhaps you're still unsure. In that case, send me a check post-dated for 30 days. I can't cash it before the 30 days are up. So you can receive the book, read it, apply its principle and see for yourself that everything I've said is true. If for some reason you are less than 100% satisfied with the results, and if you feel I've lied or even slightly exaggerated, all you have to do is return the book and I'll send back your check. This is an unconditional guarantee and allows you to receive the book without risk. In a few days, you may be in the same situation as you are today and sorry you've turned this page too fast...or, you may have started to earn a whole lot of money. The choice is yours.

She was out for revenge and got it — with a pair of scissors!

Angry wife snips off cheatin' hubby's manhood

. . . but docs sew it back on!

By JOE BERGER

Fiery Fay Dunne got so ticked off when she learned her hubby was having an affair that she trapped him in the shower — and snipped off his sex organ with a pair of scissors!

But as pain shot through his body like a dagger, luckless Len managed to retrieve his severed manhood — and rushed it to a hospital in time for doctors to sew it back on.

Now, with the help of sympathetic surgeon wife Joyce, the mutilated man is slowly regaining the love life he thought had been snatched away forever.

"It's been tough, but I'm gradually becoming my old self again," laid-back Len, 56, told reporters in Brisbane, Australia.

"I'm really lucky to have a woman like Joyce to lean on. She's been my strength — and without her I'd have killed myself a long time ago."

The tale of bloodcurdling horror began the day furious Fay discovered Len had been fooling around with Joyce behind her back.

"I knew she'd be mad, but I never guessed how mad," the airport baggage handler recalled.

"Then I found out. One morning I was taking a shower and she barged in with a pair of scissors. Before I knew what was happening, she just reached down and cut it off.

"The pain was staggering, but all I could think about was getting my manhood — and me — to the hospital before it was too late to reattach it.

"I'm just thankful I got there in time."

Since that spine-chilling day, Fay's been convicted of assault and Len has undergone three operations to repair the damage she inflicted.

"I guess you could say I've lived through every man's worst nightmare," he said. "It's not something I'd want to go through again."

LEN DUNNE with second wife Joyce.

Guard guns down 27th suspect

A white security guard in South Africa has gunned down 27 burglary suspects in the past four years — and all of them were black.

The latest victim of Sybrand Louis van Schoor was an 18-year-old youth shot at a meat factory in East London, South Africa.

Earlier this year, an inquest cleared the trigger-happy security guard in the fatal shootings of 26 black suspects since 1985.

Van Schoor works for a private security firm that patrols neighborhoods and business districts by car.

Fired worker goes on $500G rampage!

By JACK ALEXANDER

Angry worker Denise Adderly went on a rampage after being fired — and destroyed about $500,000 worth of fragile electronic equipment, cops said.

"Workers heard the first tray of instruments drop and thought someone had butterfingers," said Mindy Hill, manager of PPC Products Inc. in Riviera Beach, Fla.

"Then they heard another tray drop and realized someone was doing it on purpose. Several workers saw her pulling trays and boxes off shelves and throwing them," she said.

The hopping-mad woman stormed through the plant "dumping hundreds of transistors from trays and thousands of chips from boxes," said manager Hill.

Mrs. Adderly had been fired for excessive absences after missing three straight days of work on the plant's assembly line.

The company sent her a telegram telling her she had been fired, but apparently Mrs. Adderly didn't receive it. She got the bad news when she reported for work.

"We estimate the damage is up to $500,000," said Mrs. Hill, whose firm employs 114 people.

"We are talking about hundreds and thousands of items that cost anywhere from $3 to $300. We definitely plan to file charges."

The disgruntled woman was subdued by two male employees and escorted out of the building. Deputies arrived a short time later.

The gold-coated transistors regulate the flow of electricity to the flaps of missiles and help convert solar energy into usable power. The transistors are built around the firm's tiny silicon chips.

NASA's space shuttles are equipped with the firm's transistors as are air-to-air missiles and space exploration satellites.

Biker chick Liz Taylor learns about tattoos — the hard way!

The amazing lady often conquers the open road with fellow motorcycle nut Malcolm Forbes. But this is one biker chick who's willing to forget the tattoos — 'cause she learned about them the hard way. "When I first started biking, I bought those tattoos that you put on and wipe off," ageless Liz told a reporter.

"Only mine went from here (her wrist) to here (her elbow). A funny thing about that tattoo — it wouldn't come off!"

The frantic superstar scrubbed her Technicolor arm for days. "I tried using baby oil, soap, everything," she recalled.

"After four or five days, I called my dermatologist and said I needed an appointment. When I got there, I said to him, 'You'll never guess how stoned I got last week,' and I rolled up my sleeve and showed him that tattoo.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising".

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public

If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9086 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. WX77, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. ALCO-HOGS!

Pigs get drunk and tear up town

By JOE BERGER

Thirteen booch-loving hogs guzzled gallons of moonshine liquor, then roared off like a herd of wild elephants — toppling outhouses, chasing scared schoolkids and doing $20,000 damage to homes and stores!

The pickled pigs also mowed down dozens of chickens, trampled vegetable gardens and rumbled through a crowded church — knocking a flabbergasted pastor on his fanny.

"Those crazy animals nearly killed me," trembling preacher Nugal Kduoga told reporters in Eldoret, Kenya.

"They just barged through the back door and bowled me over.

"If you've never been attacked by a drunk pig, you just don't know. They made a real mess of the church before all our screaming scared them away."

The saga of the potted porkers began when the pigs broke out of their pen on a farm outside Eldoret and stumbled onto a hidden cache of a potent, illegal liquor called kangara.

The excited swine swilled down two large vats of the scrumptious stuff, then staggered off toward town, snorting and grunting and squealing.

"I was hanging my clothes when I looked up and saw those pigs coming through the fields," recalled horrified housewife Juina Loaka. "They chased right past me and into the house, breaking dishes and knocking over my furniture. I was scared to death. I ran to the neighbors for help, and when I got back the pigs were gone — but my house was ruined."

Police spokesman Lopeli Tolsa reported that the well-oiled oinkers ransacked 12 other houses, trampled chickens to death and toppled at least three outhouses before roaring into town like a gang of drunken sailors. "In Eldoret, they chased some children through a schoolyard and knocked all the food off the shelves in an outdoor market," Detective Tolsa told reporters.

"No one would stop them because they were acting so crazy people thought they were possessed by demons."

The carnivore finally ended when the smacked swine curled up on the sidewalk outside a bicycle repair shop and passed out like a light.

"The farmer finally came and took them away," Det. Tolsa said.

"Now he'll have to make them into sausage just to pay for all the damage they caused."

'We thought they were possessed by demons'

PIE-EYED PIGS went on a hell-raising rampage after they got their snouts into a few gallons of moonshine booze.

Judge lowers the boom on no-show groom

A groom left his bride waiting at the altar — and was ordered to pay her $4,807 for standing her up.

"To formally set a wedding and go through all preparations and publicity, only to walk out of it when the matrimony is about to be solemnized is unjustifiably contrary to good customs," said a court in Manila, the Philippines.

The court said no-show groom Wenceslao Balde must pay her the money.

Woman burns at buffet table

A Canadian couple are suing a travel agency and a hotel for over $100,000 because the woman was burned at a buffet meal.

Sylvia and Paul Ouellette were vacationing in the Dominican Republic when the accident occurred. A waiter spilled flaming liquid on the 28-year-old woman, causing second- and third-degree burns on her face, chest, arms and hands, the suit says.

Husband confesses to murder — then wife turns up alive!

A guilt-ridden hubby who confessed to killing his wife got the shock of his life the next day when she turned up alive and well.

The man agonized for 14 hours after strangling his wife before calling police from a public phone booth in Milwaukee, Wis.

"His wife had been choked unconscious, not choked dead," said Police Detective Sgt. Dan Jensen, who would not identify the couple.

'I left her for dead'

Cops said the couple had quarreled in their apartment over missing money. "She accused him of stealing her $300 to buy cocaine," said Sgt. Jensen. "That's when he choked her unconscious.

"While he battled with his conscience for 14 hours, she woke up and went to the hospital for treatment of minor injuries," said Sgt. Jensen.

The unsuspecting wife was arrested when she left the hospital on two earlier warrants charging her with passing worthless checks, said Police Captain Richard Abram.

Hours after she was taken to jail, other officers were listening to the sobbing husband's tale of murder.

"He said he strangled her and left her body lying on a bed in their small apartment," said Sgt. Jensen.

Officers went to the apartment, kicked in the front door but found no one at home. A neighbor told cops she saw the wife leave with her two children the previous night.

While booking the husband, cops learned a woman who had been arrested the previous night told them her husband had choked her.

The astonished hubby could not believe his wife was alive until she visited him at the police station. He wasn't charged in the attack, cops said.

A ROCKIN' GIFT FOR CHRISTMAS

Let's send medical aid to Hanoi — packed in nuclear missiles!

I'm madder than General Patton with a busted tank over the latest numskull idea to come out of Washington — sending $250,000 in medical supplies to Vietnam!

Now if that doesn't make you pig-biting mad, nothing will! I've always been proud to be an American and I fought my way through the smoke and fire of Pork Chop Hill in Korea to prove it. I saw hundreds of brave American boys fall on that hellish hillside. And I'll damn well tell you that I didn't shake hands with those screaming Commie devils when it was all over.

I've always been gung-ho for Prez Bush — until now. I slapped the five out of my daughter-in-law Candy when she called him a whining little wimp during the Presidential debates with that dummy Dukakis. And I even overlooked his play for the homo vote by promising to be a "kinder, gentler nation."

Thank God that was political hogwash. We're still a "pull yourself up by your own bootstraps" country and we've got plenty of homeless bums using fire hydrants for pillows to prove it! But this time Georgie Boy has gone too far.

Let's face it. Those sneaky little yellow-belly Commies in Hanoi, who never had the guts to fight us face-to-face, are always crying in their rice bowls about something or other.

Sure, we've sprayed 'em down good with napalm, that kerosene jello that makes instant crispy critters.

And some of the chemicals we poured on 'em made 'em have eight-legged babies.

But, hey, no big deal. Goofy-looking babies are better than no babies at all, which is exactly what they'd be having if yours truly had gotten his say back in '65.

I'd have dropped so many A-bombs on the damn place it would have looked like the surface of the moon.

The only thing those toothy little cookies would be harvesting now would be rocks.

Prez Bush's lackeys call this sickening plan to send medical aid to Hanoi a "goodwill gesture." Well, try this "goodwill gesture" on for size:

Send 'em the medical supplies all right — packed in the nose cones of about 50 MX nuclear missiles.

After these babies go off, those little Ho Chi Minhs will need all the Band-Aids they can get!

Women's groups hand out kits for do-it-yourself abortions

Women who fear that abortion may be outlawed are preparing for the worst — by learning to end their own pregnancies with do-it-yourself abortion kits!

By SUSAN JIMISON

The kits — called "menstrual extraction kits" — are being distributed by feminist groups around the country.

Where they are prohibited by state law, feminists are dispensing directions on how to make your own kit out of easily obtained materials.

"Right now we're organizing a national self-help tour to teach women around the country about the kit and other aspects of reproduction," said Shireen Miles, Associate Director of the Federation of Feminist Women's Health Centers in Los Angeles.

"We're approaching groups, not individuals. We want to teach small groups of women to take responsibility for each other and learn how to safely perform suction abortions — aspirating the uterine lining.

"We believe abortions are a simple form of health self-care — like putting contact lenses in or giving yourself allergy shots or insulin injections."

A number of medical groups and some abortion rights advocates criticize the kits as unsafe. They worry that women who undergo the at-home abortions may jeopardize their health.

But Shireen Miles insists the abortion kit is perfectly safe once women have been trained in its use.

"It's safe because it involves small groups of women who check each other constantly to be sure there are no problems," she said.

If your pate's as shiny as a new Chevy or your hairline's retreating faster than Napoleon at Waterloo, you're in good company, baldy.

Millions of men suffer from the chrome-dome syndrome, and oodles of them have done right well despite their lack of locks.

Julius Caesar frittered away a good chunk of his life trying to conceal his bald spot by combing his thinning hair over it — and still managed to make the big time in Rome. Dwight Eisenhower and Gerald Ford proved that even guys with naked noggins can grow up to be President.

Showbiz bigwigs Sean Connery and Stacy Keach set female hearts aflutter without the aid of make-believe manes.

And Prince Charles' tresses are tumbling so fast the British are afraid he'll have no hair apparent by the time he takes the throne.

So here, for the hairless heroes and the ladies who love 'em, are some things you might not know about baldness:

- The common male pattern baldness, starting with a bare patch at the crown, is caused by an excess of the male sex hormone testosterone.
- Guys with high-glow heads have much stronger sex drives.
- Job stress and physical or mental illness can bring on hair loss, but victims usually recover their mop tops when the condition is treated.
- Smoking reduces blood circulation and can cause us to shed our shimmering locks.
- Eunuchs never go bald. But they don't have any appetite for sex either.
- Most women are plagued by thinning hair after menopause.
- Munching on lots of vegetables, avoiding fatty foods and putting away plenty of water helps keep those curls safe, some experts say.
- Balding is very common among Americans and Europeans — but Africans and Asians seldom suffer fallout.
- Experts advise male balds to grow a well-manicured mustache or beard to divert attention from their glowing domes.
- Baldness is sometimes hereditary, but it can skip a generation or two.

Sixty guests who checked in never checked out!

Hotel of horrors!

By SCOTTY PAUL

The mysterious disappearance of 60 men has been traced to a tiny Bavarian inn where they were drugged, robbed and dropped into a huge vat of boiling water.

"The poor devils never had a chance, it seems," said Inspector Hans Mueller. "They checked in . . . had a few drinks and never checked out."

Bloodthirsty innkeepers boiled their victims alive

Inn owners Anna and Otto Siegrist have admitted murdering their overnight guests for money and then boiling them alive. They've been sentenced to die.

"Their unfortunate victims were given a special room where the bed was attached to a trapdoor. Otto waited until the drug took effect before robbing and stripping the victim of his clothes," said Inspector Mueller.

"Once that was done, Otto pressed a lever that tripped a trapdoor and dumped the victim into the vat of boiling water."

Cops believe the Siegrists — both in their 70s — had been carrying out their grisly murders for more than five years.

As bartender at the inn, Otto would spot guests who had money and say to Anna, "There is a fat pig to be had if you want one." Anna would reply, "I pray you put him in the hog pen until tomorrow."

"The hog pen was the vat of boiling water heated by an industrial gas burner," said Inspector Mueller. "The unsuspecting victims died within seconds."

DEATH hotel is located in town of Lindstedt, West Germany.

INNOCENT-LOOKING inn occupied the building at the far left on this quiet street in the Bavarian Alps.

EVIL innkeepers Anna and Otto Siegrist have admitted their monstrous crimes. The pair has been sentenced to die.

Most of the victims were Swiss or German, who unfortunately chose the tiny inn in Lindstedt, West Germany, for a night's stay.

"The couple covered their tracks extremely well," said Inspector Mueller. "All traces of their victims, including clothes, jewelry and even cars were disposed of. They only kept the money."

Cops said the cars of three victims were found at the bottom of a sharp drop-off on a mountain road five miles away, wiped clean of prints. The trail of missing men eventually led to the inn after police got an anonymous tip from a cab driver.

"The cabbie dropped off a passenger and was supposed to pick him up the next day. He was suspicious of Siegrist's denial that the man had ever stayed there."

Police got a search warrant and raided the inn. They found the vat filled with boiling water in the basement underneath the bedroom floor.

"Buried in the small yard behind the Siegrists' inn were dozens and dozens of bones — arms, legs, thighs, skulls . . . you name it," said Inspector Mueller.

SPICE UP YOUR LOVE LIFE!

Doc tells how adult videos can improve your marriage

By MARTHA ATKINS

You can spice up your sex life and strengthen your marriage — with steamy videos, says a top doc!

All kinds of folks are walking into their local video store to rent them, so there's no reason to be embarrassed, says the expert.

"It's a safe way to have variety without going outside the relationship," says Dr. Sharon Nathan, assistant clinical professor of psychology in psychiatry at Cornell Medical School.

Adult videos are good mood setters so couples who are sexually inhibited or have trouble initiating sex can benefit from watching them.

"They force communication about fantasies and preferences," explains Dr. Nathan.

They let the viewer "focus on the film rather than themselves.

"And just watching them can be exciting," continues Dr. Nathan.

She says couples should rent several videos at a time. "Never choose just one because it's hard to tell what they'll be like," says Dr. Nathan.

"Realize that the video might be boring or unpleasant. And if you don't like it, try another one.

"A sense of humor is important when watching them," she continues.

"A lot of them are absolutely dreadful, so watch them with a sense of fun and playfulness. And don't take them seriously."

Although adult videos are enjoyable there can be a negative side to them if they're used to pressure partners into doing something they don't want to do.

"If one person tries to coerce the other by saying, 'Why can't you do that?' or 'Why can't you be like that?' then they aren't useful," says Dr. Nathan.

"And if the video bothers you, you should turn it off at once."

It's the most bizarre case of mass-memory loss ever, say docs

Family of 11 struck by amnesia — during Thanksgiving dinner!

By DAMON RAY

A family of 11 people were mysteriously stricken with amnesia during Thanksgiving dinner — and now they're complete strangers!

The mind-blowing incident has baffled doctors, one of whom says the odds against 11 people losing their memories at the same time "are a trillion to one, at least."

"I've been a psychiatrist for 35 years and I've never seen anything like it," Dr. Walter Michler told a medical conference in Aachen, West Germany.

"An entire family has lost all recollection of each other. These people can't even remember their own pasts.

"All they know is that they suddenly found themselves sitting at a table together on November 23. Husbands didn't know their wives. Mothers didn't know their children. And nobody knows why."

The victims belong to families headed by brothers Robert and Michael Bischof and they ranged in age from 7 to 46.

Friends noted that they had been celebrating Thanksgiving together since an American soldier stationed in West Germany introduced them to the tradition in 1976.

"They sat down to eat and got halfway through their meal before the amnesia struck," said Dr. Michler.

"Michael Bischof called the police, but by the time help arrived the women were in shock."

Interviews with family members shed no light on the problem, said Dr. Michler. They are all currently living at home as strangers and undergoing psychotherapy while waiting to get their memories back.

"Amnesia can have many causes, including injury, mental disease or a painful memory," said Dr. Michler. "It's possible that these people were discussing some dreadful family secret which caused them to spontaneously deny their identities, their family and their pasts.

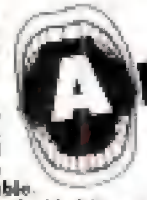
"In time they should regain their memory," he added.

AGONY OF A YAWN that went on . . . & on . . .

Sitting in front of the fire to watch a little TV before bed, Jonathan Jayne stretched and yawned — and suddenly began a night of agony as he found his jaw locked wide open.

The 26-year-old bachelor tried with all his might to shut his mouth, but couldn't. Jayne gently massaged his cheeks, hoping to relax his jaw so it would close, but that didn't work either.

As the pain became more and more excruciating with each passing minute, Jayne of Abingdon, England, lay down in bed thinking that a few minutes rest might do the trick.



Five minutes passed, then 10 and then 20. Jayne's jaw remained locked open and the pain became unbearable.

At that point Jayne decided it was time to call for help. He picked up the phone and dialed his parents, but when they answered, he could only manage to make gasping sounds.

Jayne's parents thought it was a crank call and hung up.

More than an hour had passed since his jaw locked open and Jayne was now desperate. He called his parents back and grunted that it was their son.

At first they thought he was drunk, but he managed to convince them that he needed help.

By the time his parents arrived, Jayne had been suffering for two hours. They tried to relax his jaw and close his mouth, but when they failed they drove him to John Radcliffe Hospital in Oxford. Over three hours after Jayne's agony began, an oral surgeon determined that the young man's jaw was dislocated and wheeled him into the operating room.

When Jayne woke up in a recovery room, he was delighted to find his mouth shut. "I have never been so relieved in my life," he said.

A leading oral surgeon said such incidents are rare, but warned that it can happen to anyone.

"People should be very careful when they yawn," he said. "They should avoid opening their mouths too wide."

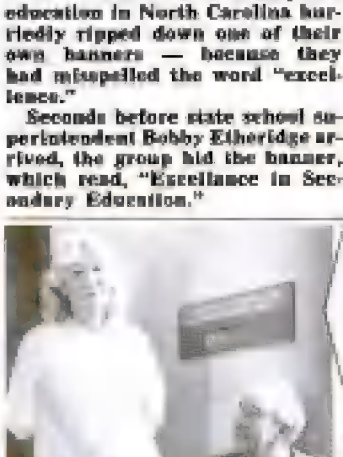
Ahem! Judge says granny's skirt is too short for court



HOUSEWIFE Aleen Shoemaker and her lawyer Victor Blaine feel her hemline was modest enough to wear in court.

A lady's knees do not please Judge Shelly Hancock — or at least that's what His Honor implied when he tossed grandmother Aleen Shoemaker out of court for wearing a "short" skirt!

Mrs. Shoemaker, 52, was wearing a dress that ended three inches above the knee, apparel evidently so shocking that the Harris County Court-at-Law judge would not tolerate it.

"I'm rather liberal, but I've just got to draw the line," the judge said after refusing to hear Mrs. Shoemaker's plea in a Houston, Tex., drunk driving case. "The dress was just too short for court. I thought they were shorts at first."

Mrs. Shoemaker was arrested on September 3 after sheriff's deputies saw her weaving along a highway in her car. On a breathalyzer test she scored .13, higher than the .10 Texas level for intoxication.

The gray-haired housewife spent several days in the county jail and had agreed to a plea bargain in which she would plead guilty in return for a $100 fine and a suspended license. She and her attorney were approaching the bench to make their pleas when Judge Hancock stopped her.

"He said, 'Oh, she can't come up here — she's got shorts on,' " recalled Mrs. Shoemaker's lawyer, Victor Blaine. "I said, 'She doesn't have shorts on — that's a skirt.'

"The judge said, 'No, it's too short, you can't come up here.' "

Mrs. Shoemaker said she was stunned by the judge's objection to her dress, which had a modest overblouse.

"I don't think it was too short," she said. "It's what all the ladies are wearing now. I'm mostly embarrassed."

But Judge Hancock insisted that he — like other court judges who have posted dress codes outside their courtrooms — has a right to rule on fashion as well as law.

"There has got to be a place in this world where people have to dress appropriately," the judge said. "And court and church are two of those places."

We're filthy rich, but I think money's dirty

Dear Dotti: I've got an unusual problem that you might be able to help me with. My husband earns a lot of money — over $200,000 a year — and we live in a very nice house in the finest neighborhood in town. The thing is, I feel guilty for being so wealthy.

I can't bring myself to wear fancy clothes or drive a nice car because I feel self-conscious. I get all my dresses from the thrift shop and drive a 22-year-old car.

For a while my husband went along, but now he says I'm embarrassing him and he wants me to start spending our money. Dotti, I don't want to wear designer clothes and drive a Mercedes. What should I do? — Rich in Bloomington

Dear Rich: I used to have a friend just like you, but I stopped seeing her because I couldn't stand all the whining. If you're rich, flaunt it. If I was loaded, I would.

No one can tell me how to raise my kid!

Dear Dotti: The other day I was in a department store and this nasty woman jumped all over me because my 3-year-old son pushed a stack of aluminum frying pans off a low shelf.

I was fit to be tied, Dotti. The way I see it she had no right to say a word. I take care of my kid, but I certainly can't prevent every little accident, so I cussed the woman out in front of God and everybody. Do you think I was right? — Mad in Richmond

Dear Mad: Don't be stupid! Parents who can't control their rug rats ought to be shot.

How can I gag my loudmouth neighbor?

Dear Dotti: I'm at my wit's end. This stupid neighbor of mine is spreading all kinds of gossip about my financial situation and sex life and making me a laughingstock in front of all my friends. I asked her to lay off, but she won't. What can I do? —Vengeful in Topeka

Dear Vengeful: You can spread lies about little Miss Gossip or slap her face. Come to think of it, why don't you do both?

It's no gas to be seen with a burper

Dear Dotti: My brother burps loudly in restaurants. How can I make him stop? — Lady in N.C.

Dear Lady: Try kicking his shin.

Hubby beats me up just to get his kicks

Dear Dotti: My husband and I had a great marriage for five years, but now our life together is the pits. He used to be a great lover and very kind and caring. But suddenly he's gotten very rough.

I don't like pain, Dotti, and I don't like my husband roughing me up to get his kicks. Please don't tell me to leave him. I still love the guy madly — it's just that I want him to play straight. What can I do? — Bruised in Corpus Christi

Dear Bruised: Your husband has gone off the deep end. If he refuses to see a shrink, give him the boot.

Dotti, please sound the alarm on AIDS

Dear Dotti: Would you please tell all your millions of readers that condoms don't always prevent AIDS? Most people think they do when, in fact, many condoms have holes. — Concerned Citizen in Detroit

Dear Concerned: If people don't know how to prevent AIDS by now, nothing I say can help. I just wish the country would forget about AIDS and find a cure for cancer.

Dotti will answer your letters — and tell it like it is. Just write to her, c/o Weekly World News, 600 South East Coast Ave., Lantana, Fla. 33462.

Confidential

Dear Bill in Nashville: Go die.

Dear Lonely in St. Paul: I hope you're lonely forever.

Dear Fattie in Montreal: When you break toilet seats, it's definitely time to diet.

Dear Ecstatic in Kennewick: I don't care how exciting it was. Electric toothbrushes sure weren't made for that.

Dear Breezy in Reading: There's no law that says you have to wear undies.

Dear Wondering in Wilmington: Nice girls don't charge for dates.

Dear Shocked in Abilene: That's what you get for being the only gal in the hot tub.

Ask the Countess

Am I nuts or has my dead pal come back as a squirrel?

Dear Countess: I'm a nature lover and feed the birds and squirrels that come to my backyard every day. I hope you don't think I'm losing my marbles, but there is this one particular squirrel that sits on my window sill and stares at me like a long-lost friend.

I've been thinking a lot about this lately and have started to think that this little animal is the reincarnation of someone I used to know. What do you think, Countess? I value your opinion. — Curious in Cedar Rapids

Dear Curious: The squirrel is indeed the reincarnation of a childhood friend. Her initials were B.B., and she was killed in a car accident in 1961. If you'd like to know more, I suggest that you close your eyes and meditate whenever the squirrel comes around.

★ ★ ★

Dear Countess: You've got to help me before I go insane. My 16-year-old daughter ran away in October, and I don't have any idea where she went. The police tried to help, but they haven't turned up anything. None of her friends know where she is, either.

Countess, you've got to tell me where my baby is and how to get her back. I'm enclosing her favorite necklace and a lock of her hair to help you get a reading. — Frantic in Provo

Dear Frantic: Your daughter is living in a tent just south of your own home in Provo on the shore of Utah Lake. I want you to drive there today — you can't miss it — and talk things over with this girl. She is terribly confused, angry and depressed. But she'll be better when the two of you seek professional help.

★ ★ ★

Dear Countess: Will I ever get down to 120 pounds? I'm 52 years old and weigh 305 pounds now. — Tubby in Hartford

Dear Tubby: I don't mean to disappoint you, dear, but you were never meant to be slim. Be proud of yourself just as you are. You have many outstanding attributes, including wit, compassion and a heart full of love.

Doctors watch soul re-enter dead man's body

By GARY HERNDON

Startled emergency room workers claim they actually saw the soul of a dead man — as a cloud of bluish haze — re-enter his body 20 minutes after he died — and restore life to his corpse!

At least three doctors and four nurses say they witnessed the apparent resurrection of Enrique de Espinosa, a police officer who was gunned down by an unidentified assailant in Huelvo, Spain.

Doctors had pronounced him dead 20 minutes before!

According to the Spanish press, de Espinosa was shot once in the head and had lost so much blood by the time he arrived at a regional medical center that his heart stopped before he could be prepared for surgery.

Dr. Marcelino Arevalo told a group of reporters that 20 minutes had passed when a nurse noticed a bluish haze forming about four feet above the dead man's head.

"She pointed it out to us and as we watched it grew both in size and in the intensity of its color," said Dr. Arevalo, a surgeon, who heads the medical center.

"It was distinctly blue and even though you could look right through it, it seemed to sparkle and pulsate, as if it was breathing. We were awestruck. I can't be sure how long we watched, but it couldn't have been more than a few seconds before something like a long finger of mist directed itself to de Espinosa's mouth.

"The cloud of haze followed it like pouring water.

"As it did, his chest began to expand, he gave a heave, and then he began to breathe."

Dr. Arevalo said the medical team was almost too stunned to act.

One nurse actually fainted. But under his direction they finished preparing the cop for surgery and removed the bullet.

The operation was a complete success, he said.

And while de Espinosa suffered some brain damage and paralysis on his right side, a 90 to 95 percent recovery was expected.

"After 15 minutes without oxygen, it's a miracle that his brain is functioning at all," said Dr. Arevalo.

"I can offer no scientific explanation for it.

"But the consensus of witnesses is that de Espinosa was brought back to life by the power of his own soul. Who am I to say that is not so?"

In a brief interview with reporters, de Espinosa said he had no recollection of his death-and-life ordeal and he would not speculate on what might have happened.

"Some of the nurses say I am the beneficiary of a miracle, and the doctors say that something strange was in fact going on," he said. "I really can't figure out what happened. All I know is I'm around to listen to the strange story. I really didn't feel anything.

"I'm just grateful to be alive. I guess it wasn't my time to go. I feel like I've got lots of life in me." In a similar case reported in the April 24, 1984, edition of The NEWS, surgeons in Stockholm, Sweden, witnessed what they believed to be the soul of a plane crash victim leaving his body.

Dr. Jan Lundquist, the anaesthesiologist, described the soul as being "vapor-like, dazzling and misty blue" and said the patient's vital signs ceased the instant it rose from his body.

Witnesses to a murder told cops the killer's nickname was "Moe," which was shaved out in his haircut.

MILLIONAIRE SUGAR DADDY'S SUIT CLAIMS:

Gold digging sisters took me for a $198,500 ride!

GENEROUS Henry Walling treated his companions Linda Baker and Rina Broder like queens. But now their three-way relationship is over.

By JACK ALEXANDER

Two pretty sisters snared a rich sugar daddy who showered them with lavish gifts and money until he said they got greedy — and the honeymoon was over.

The once cozy relationship between Linda Baker, her sister Rina Broder and millionaire Henry Walling has now deteriorated into a stormy lawsuit.

Linda, 40, and Rina, 35, had shared companionship and sex with the wealthy 82-year-old retiree since 1988.

Walling met Linda at a Stuart, Fla., restaurant where she worked as a waitress. She introduced him to her sister a few months later.

"We were like family to him for years," said Rina. "We were with him during the holidays, when he was sick, when he was lonely. We would sit, sing and play the guitar. For an old man like Henry that was a joy of life." The attractive sisters said they also took care of Walling's sexual needs — and were well paid for it. Rina said he gave her up to $10,000 each time she performed oral sex.

But Walling said he only had intercourse with Linda twice during the five years — and never with Rina.

Walling said he enjoyed being generous to the young women "because it made them happy."

During their five-year friendship, Walling bought both of them BMWs and a diamond ring for one. He took them on vacations and paid their living expenses.

Walling gave the sisters and their children money to visit their native Israel, took them to Las Vegas and bought their brother a $20,000 car.

"He took care of everything," said Linda.

But the three-way friendship began to sour a year ago when Walling was hospitalized with a serious respiratory ailment.

Linda asked him to include her in his will and Walling refused.

During his 10 days in the hospital, Walling claims in a lawsuit that $198,500 in checks were written on his checking account.

Checks were written to pay off the $47,000 mortgage on Linda's home, the $41,000 mortgage on Rina's condo, $20,000 worth of clothes and for many other goodies.

Walling claims his name was forged on the checks and a handwriting expert backs him up. Rina Broder and Linda Baker claim that he wrote the checks.

Judge John Fennelly will decide who's right when the court trial resumes next month.

EASY STREET: Rina Broder met millionaire Henry Walling and hit the jackpot.

Pool player nearly dies when he sinks one — in his mouth

By SIMON TIMMS

A prank-playing pool player almost choked to death when the eight ball he popped in his mouth as a joke got stuck in his throat!

Paul Moore turned blue and collapsed on the floor of Barry's Billiards in Cape Town, South Africa, before his buddies realized he was in serious trouble.

They tried to get the ball out but couldn't. Someone eventually called for an ambulance which sped him to the hospital where a slender-fingered doctor managed to pluck the ball from his throat.

"I put the eight ball in my mouth as a joke," Moore told reporters. "Everyone was laughing at first but they realized I was in trouble when I hit the deck. I wanted to talk but I couldn't get anything out.

"Several people tried to get the ball and I even tried to pop it out myself. But I got dizzy. I guess I passed out."

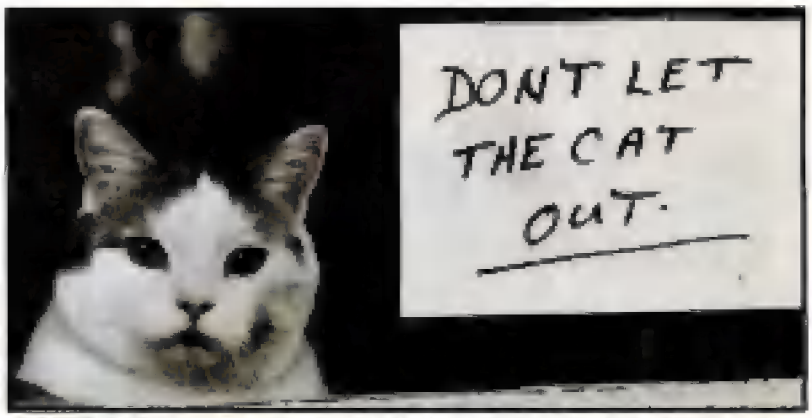
Dr. Alan Murray has been credited with saving the 22-year-old man's life.

"I didn't believe it when the nurses told me he had a billiard ball in his throat but I looked and there it was, as big as life," said the physician.

"It's a good thing I've got skinny fingers. I was able to get them around the ball and pull it out."

Said Moore: "I'm getting an awful lot of guff over this. If the guys keep

Judge puts cat under house arrest



LOCKED IN! The sign says it all. A sad-eyed Mortimer the cat gazes out the living room window after a judge issued a court order keeping him indoors.

SET CAT TRAP!: Al Maygard says he's been tormented by stray cats.

A miffed kitty named Mortimer has been spending his days indoors with his nose pressed longingly against a window pane — since a judge placed the meandering mouser under house arrest!

Mortimer's troubles began when asthma sufferer Al Maygard and his wife Ann filed suit against three neighbors after waging a six-year battle to keep carousing cats out of their yard and home.

"Every time we would turn around, a cat was dumping in our yard," the Calgary, Canada, man told reporters.

"They get on our lawn chairs, and when we open the door they all run right in."

The Maygards' suit seeks $30,000 in damages and an injunction keeping the neighbors' cats off their property. Mortimer became the first victim when Justice Carole Conrad ruled the footloose feline has to stay indoors — or be on a leash while outdoors — until the Maygards' suit comes to trial next year. And the jailbird kitty isn't pleased with his predicament, owners Garry and Carol Huskinson report.

The judge's decision also has sparked outrage from animal lovers.

"It puts the cat under house arrest and basically says he's guilty before he even gets to trial," fumed Jessie Rampal, president of the Citizens' Animal Protection Society of Canada. But Maygard says it's not really the cats that cause the problem. "It's the people who are the real problem. They allow their dogs and cats to roam free.

"People can't simply come walking onto another person's property. That's trespassing.

"Why should their pets be allowed to trespass?"

— JANICE KILGORE

Doc does operation — with screwdriver

A doctor performed emergency surgery on a young construction worker — with a screwdriver.

The bizarre operation took place after a 1½-inch steel screw rammed through John Williams' shoe and into his foot.

John, 17, was rushed to a hospital in Leighton, England, where doctors X-rayed his foot and decided the best way to remove the screw was to unscrew it.

"Have you got a screwdriver with you?" a nurse asked John's boss, Frank Williamson.

Frank said later: "I got one from the car and they simply unscrewed the screw back through his foot and out of his shoe. There was no other way — his shoe was screwed tight to his foot."

Secret diary: Hitler stashed loot in underwater bunker!

There is a billion dollars in Nazi gold at the bottom of this lake

By ANDY STACK

A billion dollars in Nazi gold is buried in a fortified bunker at the bottom of Austria's Lake Toplitz — just waiting for somebody to find it!

That's the claim of historian Hugo Ortner, who says that the diaries of Nazi General Ferdinand Hofer prove that tons of gold plundered by the Germans was stashed in the bunker just before the end of World War 2.

"The gold is there — all we have to do is find it," Dr. Ortner told newsmen in Vienna. "Adolf Hitler and the Nazis plundered a fortune during the course of the war.

"Until now, nobody knew where they hid it."

New talking rule leaves stuffy old club members at a loss for words

Members of an exclusive English men's club are outraged over a new rule that allows talking at breakfast!

The Savile Club in London has observed the cherished tradition of no conversation at breakfast throughout its 111-

But other members aren't too happy about the change.

How to put up with put-downs

Snubs can actually BUILD your confidence, says expert

By SUSAN JIMISON

You can cope with put-downs and actually benefit from rejection by following a few simple tips from a top psychologist.

By learning how to overcome feelings of worthlessness when you're rejected, you can actually increase your self-esteem, according to the expert, Dr. Dennis E. O'Grady of Dayton, Ohio.

"Most times, actual episodes of rejection are not as bad as the mental aftermath," Dr. O'Grady said. "Rejection — whether intended or accidental — hurts self-esteem, causing confusion, sadness and helplessness.

"But rejection happens every day of our lives — when we encounter a rude driver while we're on the highway, or get served by a snippy waitress.

"A lot of hurt is avoidable, simply by learning to accept rejection without letting it destroy our confidence."

Here are Dr. O'Grady's tips on how to handle the hurt when someone rejects you:

● Stop brooding over unfair rejections. Don't waste hours trying to come up with the perfect comeback. Rehashing put-downs just makes you feel angry all over again.

● Don't become the rejector when you are rejected. Many people think they can avoid being hurt by switching roles. Instead, try to talk things out.

● Don't block compliments. Unfair rejections make us believe all praise is undeserved. It makes us think that everybody else is O.K. and we are abnormal. Give people a chance to like you.

● Keep asking for what you want and need. Silence only compounds the pain and misunderstanding surrounding rejection. Say: "Would you tell me what you like about me?" or ask, "How am I important to you?" Such reassurance contradicts feelings of rejection.

RATS and mice are the creatures feared most by women.

Rodent terror

You macho men out there all know that most women fear mice and rats more than anything else, but now it's official — these rodents account for 56 percent of their pest terror!

A USA Today poll found that wasps and bees were second with 33.9 percent. Worms followed with 2.9 percent, while beetles were dead last at 2.6 percent.

But 1.3 percent of the women polled were no chicken to comment. And 2.6 percent said they didn't know what pests frightened them.

'Gimme a lite . . . a BLOOD lite!'

SINISTER movie vampire Bela Lugosi.

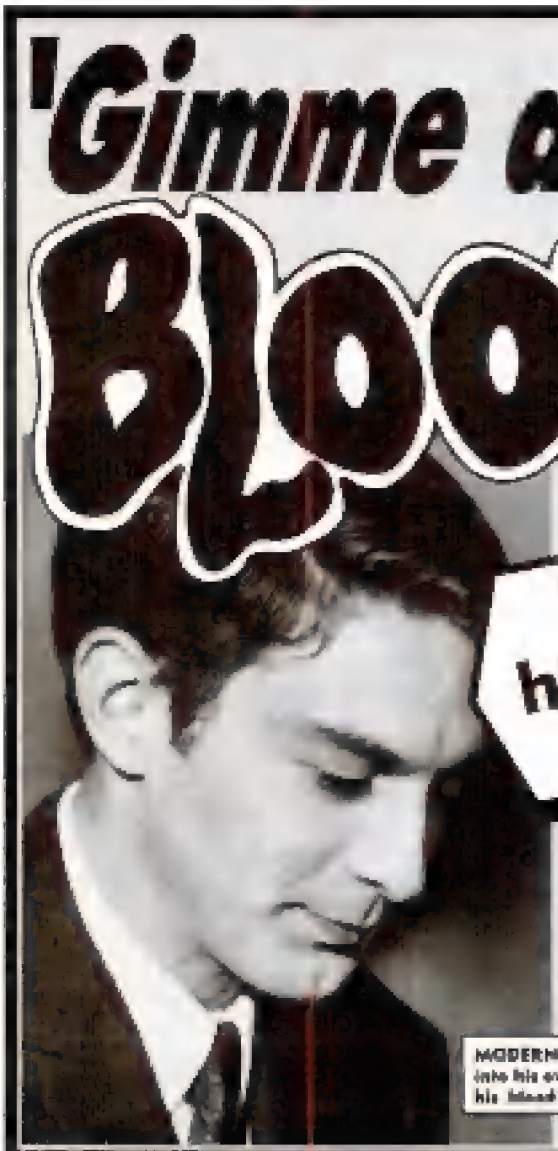
Thirsty vampire drinks his OWN blood — because he's terrified of AIDS

. . . & almost dies of anemia, say doctors

By HENRY WEBER

A 21-year-old vampire was so terrified of catching AIDS that he repeatedly slashed himself with a razor — and drank his own blood!

Octavio Flores was hospitalized with anemia after four weeks of cutting himself, and his doctors said the young man almost certainly would have died had he kept it up.



MODERN-DAY vampire Octavio Flores cut into his own body with razor blades, and drank his blood as it flowed from his wounds.

"Mr. Flores was killing himself and he knew it," Dr. Rodolfo Banchero of Junin, Peru, said in letters to South America's leading medical journals.

"But his thirst for human blood and fear of AIDS was so intense that he was willing to do anything for a drink."

The bizarre medical case came to light after Flores, severely weakened by anemia, collapsed on a city street.

He was taken to a Junin hospital where doctors quickly diagnosed his condition, but not the cause. Flores initially insisted that he had been anemic all his life. He later confided in Dr. Banchero, saying that he had been drinking blood since he saw a Dracula movie in 1984.

"He said he relied on the blood of strangers he assaulted until sometime early this fall," said the physician.

"But a growing awareness of AIDS convinced him to stop attacking strangers. He started cutting himself with a razor almost every day so that he could drink his own blood."

In his report to the medical journals, Dr. Banchero noted that there "are tens of thousands of people worldwide who drink human blood regularly."

He also advised other doctors to consider vampirism anytime they diagnose an anemic patient.

"Drinking one's own blood can certainly cause anemia and we are well-advised to take it into consideration when looking for the cause in any

We pick politicians & potatoes the same way — by their looks, says expert

By IRWIN FISHER

Americans choose political leaders the same way they choose potatoes — by looks!

That's the word from political scientist Shawn Rosenberg, who conducted a comprehensive study and learned that good-looking, well-dressed politicians are thought to be more competent and trustworthy — and get more votes — than those candidates who dress shabbily or have plain looks.

"I'm disturbed, yes. But surprised? No," said Rosenberg of the University of California at Irvine.

"What people are doing is saying: 'I don't really understand politics, so let me look at this person and decide if he is trustworthy and competent to hold office.'

What does this potato have in common with President Bush? Both look good, says an expert.

Best man swallows ring & ruins wedding

Gorgeous heiress Caroline Wickham beamed with joy beneath a veil of antique lace as she and handsome fiance James Hawkes joined hands to marry before 700 jet-setting guests from around the world.

But, according to local newspaper accounts, jubilation turned to tears and pandemonium when James reached for the glittering wedding band he planned to place on Caroline's hand — and his jealous best man swallowed the $30,000 ring!

'Marry me instead,' groom's jealous pal begs shocked bride

"Caroline, don't do it — please marry me instead!" shrieked best man Joseph Mills throwing his arms around the startled bride-to-be.

As James wrestled to restrain his frenzied pal, Caroline sobbed and ran from the fancy church outside Wellington, New Zealand.

The guests gasped, then sat in stunned silence while the mother of the bride rushed outside to comfort her heartbroken daughter.

Five minutes later, Eileen Wickham returned to the church and announced that the wedding was off. "Nobody could believe what they'd just seen," recalled society columnist Alicia Lawson.

"People had come thousands of miles for what was supposed to be the wedding of the year and everything was going beautifully.

"Then the best man ate the wedding ring and everything went crazy."

Caroline, 22, said she and her 24-year-old sweetie pie will tie the knot later in a small, private ceremony — but former best man Joseph won't be there.

"I hate him," fumed the shaken wool heiress, still fighting back tears.

"He ruined my wonderful day.

"It was going to be the happiest moment of my life, and he turned it into a nightmare."

The diamond-studded wedding ring was recovered the next day as good as new, but Caroline says her wealthy beau will have to buy her another.

"I could never wear that ring, knowing where it's been," she said.

Granny makes a $million boo-boo!

SPUNKY Luella Wilson sits in her home surrounded by her valuable antiques. She's waiting for her next day in court after a loan to nephew Bill Stuart, inset, got her in a jam.

Car loan to her nephew might cost widow, 91, every dime she's got!

A 91-year-old widow could lose nearly $1 million because she loaned a nephew money to buy a car.

Feisty Luella Wilson is able to eat only one hot meal a day provided by Meals on Wheels because her $750,000 bank account has been frozen.

By JACK ALEXANDER

"I've worked hard all my life so I could relax in my later years and this happens. I'll tell you this, sonny, it isn't fair," said the spunky widow of North Bennington, Vt.

Mrs. Wilson loaned nephew Bill Stuart $6,300 to buy a car in 1984. Billy, then 16, got drunk and wrecked the car 18 days later. One of his buddies, Mark Vince, lost a leg in the accident and sued Mrs. Wilson.

"They went after me for four reasons," she said. "I'm old. I'm alone. I'm a woman and I had the money.

"I didn't give him the car. I didn't sell him the car. I just loaned him the money to buy the car," she said.

But a jury in Bennington, Vt., said the frazzle widow was guilty of "negligent entrustment" because she knew or should have known that her nephew didn't have a driver's license, had flunked the written part of the test three times and had a history of alcohol and drug abuse. A judge ordered her to pay $950,000 to Vince.

Mrs. Wilson made most of her money through inland stock market investments and as a nightclub entertainer. Later, she and her husband operated one of the biggest nightclubs in the East until he died.

She could lose all the $750,000 in her bank account, a $102,000 house and priceless antiques from around the world.

The Vermont Supreme Court says Mrs. Wilson should have a new trial because the lower court erred in the earlier trial.

Lawyers from New York and Vermont have offered to represent her for free at the trial. People from throughout the U.S. have mailed Mrs. Wilson money for her defense.

"I guess all those folks think I got a raw deal and want to help me out," Mrs. Wilson told The NEWS.

All the publicity has made Mrs. Wilson a virtual recluse. She used to sit on her front porch in the sunlight. Now she rarely goes outdoors.

Mrs. Wilson doesn't see much of her nephew these days. "I'd like to pop him in the nose," she said. She didn't attend the first trial because she was recuperating from a cataract operation and her doctor advised her to stay home.

But she'll be at the new trial. "As long as I can walk, I'll be there. If I have to go in a wheelchair, I'll be there," she said.

LITTLE Inger is well again.

Space alien cures dying child!

6-year-old was near death from liver disease until 7-foot E.T. appeared & touched her!

By ROGER FIELDS

A couple say they were visited by a space alien who miraculously cured the liver disease that would have killed their 6-year-old daughter within weeks!

Accounts of the sensational incident that appeared in Swedish newspapers were careful to point out that the couple's claims were undocumented. But a mountain of circumstantial evidence — including a doctor's assurances that the child no longer has a trace of the liver disease that was killing her — seem to support the story, the newspapers said.

Gunnar and Kristen Nisser told reporters that the extra-terrestrial appeared on their doorstep on November 22, two weeks after liver specialist Dr. Borge Ohlsson told them little Inger Nisser's condition was inoperable.

"It is a miracle from God," Mrs. Nisser was quoted as saying. "He saved our daughter's life and made her well forever."

The Nissers said the alien — who was humanlike, stood about 7 feet tall and wore a glistening black suit — walked into their house near Stockholm shortly after dusk.

They said he hesitated momentarily, then hit them with a paralyzing beam of greenish-blue light that shot from the palm of his hand. The couple said they could not move but were fully conscious as the alien left the room and returned with their daughter.

"He moved like a figure in a dream," said Mrs. Nisser. "He carried Inger in his arms and placed her on the kitchen table."

For two hours the creature spoke gently to the girl in a strange language, said the couple. Then he placed two glowing metal tubes next to her temples. During this time the girl seemed to be in a trance. Five minutes later he removed the tubes, they said, "and Inger jumped up and hugged him."

"He looked at us and blinked his eyes, and when he did, we could move again," said Mrs. Nisser. "He told me in our language: 'She is well.'"

The couple said the creature then walked through a closed door and vanished.

Dr. Ohlsson confirmed that Inger shows no sign of ever having had the liver disease that "was so bad she would have died within weeks. I have no explanation for her cure and I'm not going to speculate," he said. "Stranger things have happened."

Scientists keep things popping!

Researchers at the University of Illinois are spending hour after hour popping corn — and trying to figure out why some kernels are too pooped to pop.

The study was paid for by the company that markets Orville Redenbacher popcorn.

"We are interested in finding out more about how we can breed the corn for better popability, how we can harvest it to avoid damage to the kernels and how we can store it to maintain the right percentage of moisture," said company spokeswoman Kay Carpenter.

MAN-HATING POOCH TURNS INTO PIRANHA

Jealous dog traps man for three days

By IRWIN FISHER

A woman's macho new boyfriend was driven to the corners and tabletops of her apartment and held there for 72 hellish hours by her jealous Boston terrier Butch!

"That bastard tried to kill me," Enrique Rosales, 25, told newsmen in Mexico City. "Every time I tried to make a run for the door he was on me like a piranha.

"He looks so mild and meek but he's a living devil. Look at my hands and legs — they're chewed to pieces."

The drama began when Rosales and his girlfriend, Carmen Pinera, agreed that he would watch her apartment while she traveled to Acapulco on business.

She told Rosales that the 21-pound dog didn't like men.

But the macho weightlifter assured her that he could handle the dog "as well as he handled women."

"I took Carmen to the airport and returned to the apartment and that's when my troubles began," said Rosales. "I went to the refrigerator to get something to eat and the dog went wild.

"He shot out of his bed like a ball from a cannon and started biting my leg. I kicked him but he wouldn't go away. I jumped up on the table just to save my leg. That's when it dawned on me. That dog doesn't want to share Carmen."

Rosales said he tried to calm the dog by talking to him. He even called the animal by his nickname, Beebee.

"But the more I talked the madder he got," said Rosales. "I even tried mentioning Carmen's name. That made things worse. I finally shut up and waited for him to fall asleep.

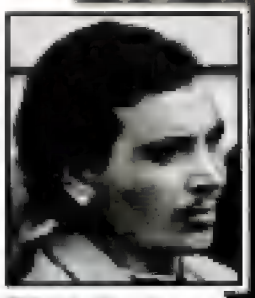
"I still moved as much as I could without waking him. I spent seven hours on the kitchen table because every time I tried to step down that fool was up and snapping."

Rosales finally halted for the apartment door but the dog cut him off and chased him into a bedroom. The young man backed into a corner, which seemed to satisfy the dog "because he just stationed himself in the doorway and glared."

For the next two-and-a-half days Rosales refused to move from the corner for fear that the dog would attack. He was rescued when Miss Pinera returned from Acapulco and got the angry dog out of the apartment.

"I'm a laughingstock but I don't care because I know how vicious that dog really is," said Rosales. "The next time Carmen leaves she can take him to the kennel. I won't stay alone with him again."

"I spent 7 hours on the kitchen table!"



TERRORIZED BY DOG! Enrique Rosales spent 72 hours in hell.

Robot waiter goes berserk and makes shambles of restaurant!

He attacks diners and tips over tables

By HENRY WEBER

A robot wine waiter ran amok in a restaurant, spilling drinks and tipping over chairs before ejecting his head at a horrified diner's feet!

Dapper Donic the Dalek was delivered complete with white bow tie to the Kavio Restaurant in Leith, Scotland, as a gimmick to promote business.

But management soon found that the mechanical marvel couldn't behave — even when he was switched off.

Restaurant owner Khorsand Kavio said the five-foot, remote-controlled robot ignored orders, spilled wine, knocked over tables and caused customers to cower in the corners of his dining room.

"He accosted a woman on her way to the toilet and banged his head against the wall until it fell at her feet," said Kavio.

"His antics were costing me so much in spilled drinks that I eventually turned him off. But the problems were only starting.

"I left him against the wall as a conversation piece, but every now and then he would burst into life and lunge at people.

"There were times he shook so much I thought he was going to explode."

Kavio eventually took the haywire humanoid back to the manufacturer, Projects Barlow of London, for repair.

"We have decided not to opt for early retirement," said Projects Barlow boss Robert Barlow. "Donic will be given another chance."

THIS RAMPAGING ROBOT waiter was sent back to the factory.

Early retirement works out fine!

Researchers talked to 135 people who took early retirement and had trouble finding anyone who was miserable.

"The bottom line of early retirement is that if you're in good health and have enough financial resources to keep you going, you're likely to be happy in retirement," said Thomas Blank, an associate professor at the University of Connecticut.

Blank and other researchers had planned to study problems people encounter after early retirement, such as alcoholism, depression and boredom.

But they discovered that 90 percent of those surveyed were very satisfied and only 15 percent were dissatisfied.

Brave teen didn't want anything for himself

Cancer boy gets one wish — and uses it to help his dad

KID Courage Simon Bird gives his dad, Tony, a big hug.

Courageous cancer kid Simon Bird was granted one wish but he wanted nothing for himself — instead he asked only for a gift for his dad!

By MARTHA ATKINS

Simon, 14, was stricken with leukemia a year ago and while he was in the hospital he wrote to Dreams Come True, a charity that grants wishes to sick children, and asked for a mini-tractor for his dad's failing business.

"I knew dad was in trouble. I know he needed help," said Simon. "He'd sometimes get upset about it and I could tell."

Simon's parents, Tony, 39, and Janet, 38, were going through a real tough time. They didn't have time for their other two children, Julian, 16, and Sarah, 17, and their gardening business was in trouble because they were spending all of their time at the hospital with Simon.

"It was very tight going. If it had gone on much longer, I don't know what we would have done.

"We were beginning to lose customers. We were surviving only on Janet's sick pay," said Tony. "We had been saving up for a tractor but because of Simon's illness, the money had gone other ways. It was what we needed to get back on our feet again because it means you can get the work done so much quicker."

Dreams Come True presented the tractor to Tony at a hotel reception in the Birds' hometown of Yeovil, England.

"It was parked outside the hotel," said Tony. "They gave Simon a stereo and then said, 'And now we've got something for dad.' I had to pinch myself. I thought it was all a dream. I could have cried. It was something I had always wanted and there it was in front of me! And it was all Simon's doing."

It was a wonderful day for the entire family. "You should have seen the joy on their faces when they saw the tractor parked outside," said Mark James from Dreams Come True.

Simon says he's going to learn to drive the tractor so he can help his dad with the business.

The Birds are a loving family who've bounced back from the misfortunes of the past year. There's the shiny new tractor to help them with their business, Simon is on the road to recovery and they've even saved enough money to take him on a vacation.

TRACTOR was a gift of love from Simon to his dad.

Divorce stresses the family dog, too

Broken marriages and other unhappy human relationships can make the family dog miserable.

"Dogs are made the repository of too many human anxieties, too much tension and too much stress from trying to be what a dog was never intended to be — a sponge to soak up human emotions," said dog breeder Kay White.

Some pets become carefully groomed child substitutes, she told pet lovers in London, England.

Couple sues sperm bank after black child born

By HELEN DODSON

A desperate young couple has filed suit against a sperm bank, claiming they were traumatized and embarrassed when the blonde, blue-eyed mother underwent artificial insemination — and gave birth to a black baby!

Hugo and Christine Haller decided on artificial insemination after doctors in Stockholm, Sweden, diagnosed a medical problem that prevented the husband from impregnating his wife. The doctors arranged the procedure at a fertility laboratory and Christine, 28, immediately became pregnant. "I was ecstatic," said Christine.

"I was sure this child would be the answer to our prayers. We had waited six years and our dream was finally being realized.

"But when the baby arrived it was a terrible shock. He is definitely a black child. He does not look like us at all, he is totally different. He doesn't look like our son."

But the couple have no intentions of giving up their baby, a boy they've named Sven. They are demanding compensation for the emotional trauma caused them and for the embarrassment they suffered in producing a child who was clearly not the offspring of the husband.

"People who knew us during my pregnancy were appalled when my son was born," said Sven's mother.

"Because his race was not the same as my husband's, they assumed that I had had an affair that produced the child. We are God-fearing people and this was deeply upsetting to us.

"Now that Sven is a year old, many people assume we've adopted him, or they think I'm joking when I say he's my son," said Christine. "No one believes that I gave birth to him."

A lawyer for the sperm bank contends that a contract signed by the parents promised only that the clients' physical characteristics would be matched "as closely as possible."

"My client provided services intended to produce a baby, and in fact did produce a baby for this couple," said the attorney, Kurt Moeller.

"We kept our end of the bargain. And that was just as we promised."

Ugly folks, take heart — you are smarter!

Being ugly may not do much for your social life — but it's great for your IQ.

Most folks who missed out on good looks go to the head of the line when it comes to smarts, says Dr. John McCullers of Oklahoma State University.

They score significantly higher on tests than peers who are considered to be attractive.

"You could say that ugly people are just more intelligent because they scored higher than attractive people, but then the question is 'why?'" Dr. McCullers, a psychologist, said.

"It's much more reasonable to assume that they scored higher because they worked harder.

"They probably would not have had the time to devote to their studies if they had been attractive and therefore more popular socially."

Dr. McCullers and a colleague, Dr. James Moran III, randomly selected junior yearbook pictures of 180 males and 180 females and asked students in another high school to select the most attractive and the most unattractive.

In a second stage of their study, they selected the 10 most attractive and least attractive males and females and compared their scores on various standardized test.

Cement truck driver leads cops on a 50-mile demolition derby

A teenager led cops on a 50-mile, fender-crunching chase through eight Florida towns — in a stolen cement mixer!

During the 2½-hour chase that began in Bartow and eventually involved 15 police cars, the truck driver plowed through one cruiser and a game officer's car.

The wild driver was finally stopped when lawmen blasted out the truck's tires with shotguns.

Cops arrested Richard Branch, 18, who's being held in the Polk County Jail facing charges from the Polk County Sheriff's Office and police in Auburndale, Bartow, Lake Wales, Dundee, Lake Hamilton and Haines City — as well as the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

Steaming surprise for collared crook!

Angry couple dumps boiling water in burglar's lap, say cops

Tired of crooks turning their peaceful neighborhood into a jungle of crime, two angry residents dealt out vigilante justice to an auto burglar — by pouring boiling water in his lap!

Carnell Gray and Lavenda Garrison nabbed Robert Johnson stealing tools from the car and marched him into their Philadelphia home at gunpoint, said cops.

"They made a citizen's arrest, but wanted to teach Johnson a lesson," said Police Det. Frank Gallagher.

By JACK ALEXANDER

Gray tied Johnson to a chair and beat him on the back with a baseball bat as Mrs. Garrison boiled a pot of water, according to police.

Then the furious couple poured the boiling water into his lap and fired the pistol close to his head before calling police, said Det. Gallagher.

"We're sick and tired of trash like this messing up our neighborhood," said Mrs. Garrison as they turned over their prisoner to police.

Johnson was admitted under guard to St. Agnes Medical Center's burn unit, where he was treated for second-degree burns of the hands, back, face and legs.

He also was charged with theft, receiving stolen property and possession of an instrument of crime.

Gray and Mrs. Garrison were charged with kidnapping, aggravated and simple assault, recklessly endangering another person, weapons violations and conspiracy.

"We can understand their frustrations about the drugs and crime in their neighborhood, but we can't have people being judge and jury," said Det. Gallagher.

Dieter loses five inches — in height!

By DAMON RAY

A 54-year-old woman took a Chinese herb to lose weight and wound up shrinking from 5-foot-7 to 5-foot-2 — in less than two weeks!

That's the claim of Dr. Nicolas Brown and other physicians, who have examined Monique Visser and determined that the strange herb softened and shrank every bone in her body, including her spine.

She started at 5'7" and went to 5'2", say stunned docs

"The condition appears to be irreversible," Dr. Brown told medical reporters in Amsterdam, Holland. "The woman shrank five inches and will never regain the height she lost.

"She took the herb for only 13 days. If she had taken it longer she would probably be dead."

The mind-bending drama began when the 205-pound woman decided she wanted to lose 80 pounds in late September.

She bought an appetite suppressant that was said to be made "with an ancient Chinese herb," from a health food shop.

As directed, Mrs. Visser used the dark brown leaves to make a thick, syrupy tea. She lost weight just as the health food shop said she would. But on the 13th day of her diet she realized that something "was terribly wrong."

"When I got out of bed that morning I felt very tired and weak," she said. "When I looked in the mirror I went into shock.

"I was so short — I got sick to my stomach and threw up."

Dr. Brown has analysed the herb but still doesn't know what it is. Dutch authorities are also trying to find the owners of the health food shop that sold it to the woman. But they have disappeared.

"This is a very unusual case," Dr. Brown told the press. "It also illustrates the dangers and risks of taking an unknown, unproven product to lose weight."

ARIES
Mar. 21-Apr. 19

Be prepared to face a major temptation this week. It will involve someone of the opposite sex.

Also, be on your guard against accepting friendship from a new acquaintance too quickly. This person doesn't have your best interest at heart, and could spell trouble.

Nitpickers will keep your temper flaring, but your optimistic attitude will help you handle trouble spots, and problems will soon resolve themselves. A great bargain find will make your weekend!

TAURUS
Apr. 20-May 20

You'll feel hopelessly romantic this week. Look before you leap, because a spur-of-the-moment commitment may not be what you want for the long term.

Of course you need love, but the typical Taurus also needs a great deal of freedom.

The weekend is not a time to travel. Opt for stay-at-home entertainment.

An evening spent with your family turns out to be just what the doctor ordered!

GEMINI
May 21-June 20

Make that decision to follow fashion's whim. Get the works because you deserve a little treat.

Later, you'll be really surprised when your rather conservative partner is dazzled by the change, and casts a strong vote of approval.

An urgent message from friends may result in a hurried trip. Make the effort. Your presence means a lot to them.

Your health or a loved one's improves dramatically, but continue to follow a healthy life-style.

CANCER
June 21-July 22

Frustration sets in when a copycat friend tries to emulate your tastes in clothing by buying and wearing an identical outfit.

Keep in mind that imitation is the sincerest form of flattery.

Energy level is high, and your enthusiasm will help you complete weekend chores and projects in record time.

You can expect your exuberance to carry over into the evening hours, and your charm will prove irresistible to one of the opposite sex.

LEO
July 23-Aug. 22

Avoid crowds if at all possible, and when you do have to go out, carry your wallet in a safe place.

Don't be afraid to ask favors of influential people.

A retiring, quiet neighbor surprises you, and comes to your aid when you have a minor problem around the house.

A revealing encounter with an old acquaintance will send shock waves through you.

A talk will bring joyful news of a distant loved one.

VIRGO
Aug. 23-Sept. 22

Excessive spending triggers an argument with your spouse. Don't reach for the cookie jar, exercise is the answer for relieving the resulting anger and tension. You know what they say — take a walk.

Problems with a rebellious child escalate to an all-time high during the week. Lay down some strict house rules.

A chance encounter with an old classmate brightens your weekend, and brings an invitation to a sporting event.

LIBRA
Sept. 23-Oct. 22

You and your mate finally realize that your budget no longer accommodates your needs, and spend the week discussing changes.

A well-thought-out investment plan will pay off sooner than you imagine and give you the life-style to which you would like to become accustomed.

Don't be too hard on yourselves, and plan on spending some cash for just plain fun!

Be assertive when in-laws try to foul up your weekend plans. Tell them to join in or take a hike.

SCORPIO
Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Avoid a misunderstanding with a touchy neighbor this week. In fact, try your best to see the other person's point of view.

Business and pleasure don't mix under any circumstances this week.

Be prepared for an old love to show up unannounced at a festive gathering. It could cramp your style.

A telephone call will bring you news you've been waiting weeks to hear.

Money will be involved in nearly everything you do this week.

SAGITTARIUS
Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Financial matters dominate your week. A problem with credit cards and/or checkbook errors will have you juggling funds from one account to another.

You may find it difficult to accept graciously when friends want to include you in their wedding plans. Beware of the expense.

Raised eyebrows can be lowered if you'll cool your actions throughout the week.

Be more selective in your choice of companions!

CAPRICORN
Dec. 22-Jan. 19

You are entering a lucky period in your life. Take advantage of the opportunities that come knocking at your door.

Expect an associate to come up with a truly inspired idea for increasing your income.

Your creative abilities are at an all-time high and will pay off at work. Be daring!

Things move along extra smoothly this week, although a telephone call could upset some carefully made plans.

If your birthday is this week . . .

There's travel in your stars. A sudden urge will take you by surprise and you fly off for a fun-filled two-day holiday at a fabulous resort.

A loved one has a special surprise in store for you. Instead of a so-so gift, you're given something you've wanted for years.

Be on the lookout for a gray dog. Shortly after one crosses your path, a super opportunity will come your way.

Be alert or you'll miss out on a chance that could change your life and bank ac-

AQUARIUS
Jan. 20-Feb. 18

Beware of one near you who is using underhanded tactics to get you into trouble. Hold your tongue, as there are friends who are aware of what is happening. They will come to your aid!

You can look forward to a busy weekend, when visitors drop in for a few hours and decide to stay around longer than expected.

Relax and enjoy. They will bring you news you can use to your financial advantage!

Feb. 19-Mar. 20

The tides of good fortune are definitely in your favor.

You're entering a period of time when you can expect a sequence of lucky events. At least one will revolve around a rather large sum of money.

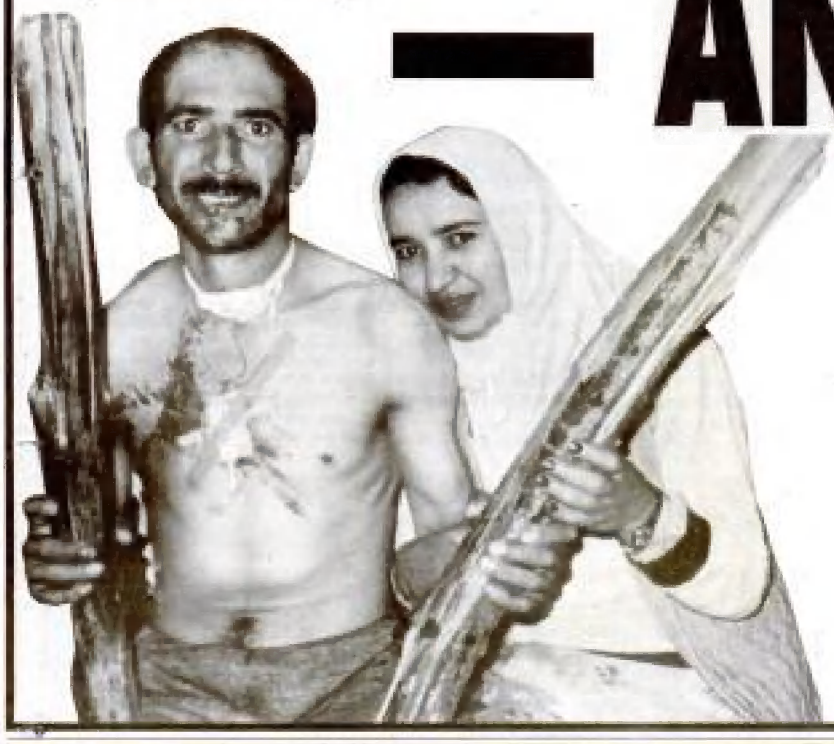
Taxi driver rams 6-foot stake through his chest — AND LIVES!

ADEM Ugur and his wife Dondu hold pieces of the stake surgeons removed from his body.



By NORM BROWN

Taxi driver Adem Ugur was barely clinging to life when he was wheeled into a hospital operating room — with a massive six-foot wooden stake through his chest!

Ugur, 31, was impaled when he ran his cab into the back of a truck carrying a load of logs sharpened into stakes.

'I felt like a speared fish'

One of the stakes shattered his windshield and speared the terrified driver through his chest, missing his heart by inches.

"I felt like a speared fish," the courageous father of two told reporters in Istanbul, Turkey.

"When I realized what had happened to me, I couldn't understand why I was still alive and breathing.

"It had to be a miracle."

Ugur not only survived the horrifying accident, he was up and walking in just days — thanks to a young surgeon who removed the stake during a delicate five-hour operation.

On his way to a full recovery, the lucky cabbie celebrated his good fortune with his wife Dondu and his children, Mustafa and Serife.

"Every day I live now is a bonus," he said. "I really should have died back there on the highway."

Test your food I.Q.

If you think eating oysters makes you sexy and brown eggs are better for you than white, you're wrong — and there may be a lot of other food myths that have you fooled.

Author Arnold Bender has researched countless examples of food folklore for his upcoming book, Healthy or Hoax — The Truth About Health Foods (Elvendon Press, London). His found some of them to be total baloney and others to be based in fact. Test yourself and see if you can tell the hoaxes from the hard truth:

● Carrots help you see in the dark. There's a basis in fact to this folk belief. Poor night vision is often caused by a deficiency in vitamin A, and carrots contain a substance which is changed to vitamin A in the body. If you already have enough vitamin A in your system, though, adding more by eating carrots won't help you see better.

● A glass of milk before drinking alcohol will keep you

Phantom of the organ haunts hotel with midnight music!

By JOHN HANNON

A fickle phantom of the organ is haunting a century-old hotel with after-hour concerts and poltergeist high jinks.

"I'm not the nervous type, so I'm not frightened of our ghost," said Janet Bond, the owner of the pub at the Queen's Hotel in Sheffield, England. "In fact, we have become quite attached to it."

Along with the late-night music, the phantom delights in such off-the-wall antics as launching mugs from the shelf and smashing them on the organ repairman," Janet said. "Suddenly, we saw a beer glass rise into the air from the bottom shelf. Then it smashed into smithereens on the floor. It was such a shock."

The spunky spook likes to shock customers on their way to the rest rooms. More than a few visitors have felt an icy tap between the shoulder blades. No matter how quickly they turn, there's nothing but thin air.

Janet and 26-year-old daughter moved into the old hotel. "One morning my daughter asked me if I'd done some late entertaining. She said someone was playing the organ in the bar downstairs at 1:30 a.m.

"But I had been in bed by midnight, and by then the bar was completely deserted," said the astonished landlady.

Nobody knows who or what the ghost is, or why it's in the hotel.
